LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

A gentleman of Los Angeles writes: "I have read your writings and thought you were a Christian and a good man. Now that I know you have been to a brutal prize fight, I have no more use for you."

The gentleman does not understand the whole duty of man when engaged in the newspaper business. It is to see everything and describe it accurately.

This reporter has seen Prado and another French criminal raffishness, has seen Caroline Harris and another American doctor electrocuted; reported five hangings in the Tombs prison, New York; the first appearance of Woodrow Wilson addressing Congress; national conventions; Queen Victoria's jubilee in London; Pope Leo's magnificent jubilee in St. Peter's; the President's trip to the Chamber of Deputies across the Seine, when he was elected from several districts at once in Paris, and various things.

But all this does not make your reporter a public executioner, a boulevardier, or anything but a heterogeneous reporter. To clearly and describe things in the reporter's business. Providence, the reporter, is responsible for things seen, from a billing sparrow to a flying comet.

Here and there we are "getting back to normal." Some states have reduced pay for ordinary labor—which means the hardest labor to thirty cents an hour; $5 for ten hours hard work. Men don't want to work when they are not getting anything out of it.

Johnson, sixty years old, backwoodsman with rough hands and little knowledge, stops you, as you go through the news. He is ambushed and shot down, with a heavy load of bullets.

First in the hospital he accused his wife. Later, twenty-five years younger than himself, and Ed Rose, his young hired man. "The recovered from the shot," Johnson swore he did not know who shot him, and showed his shoulders, almost naked, to his wife's face. "I am a woman's toy dog," as Einstein said, it, than to be a woman-beater.

On the front page you read: "William Miller, Sixteen Two in the Butte." On the back page of the same newspaper: "Girl's World Record Drip." The front page lady, all dressed, jumped off a dock to save drowning children, and saved them, a boy and a girl. The lady that dropped, jumped from a balloon 15,200 feet up, landed safely by her own wits. You have one useful and one wasted display of courage. Who ever doubts that women are at least as brave as the bravest men, and braver than the average, know little of women.

ROBBED OF $80,000 IN JEWELRY
Boston Jeweler Held Up by Auto Bandits in Vicinity of Springfield

Louis Clark, manager of the United Jewelry Company of 132 Hancock street, Boston, was found bound and gagged on the outskirts of Springfield today.

When released Clark told his story of the robbery. He left Springfield in his automobile, about eight o'clock, intending to spend the night in Hartford.

About ten miles from Hartford his machine was overtaken by a touring car traveling at a high rate of speed. The machine pulled him, he says, and then the occupants of the car jumped out, pulled revolvers from their pockets and ordered him to stop.

While the driver held a revolver near his head, according to Clark, the other two men, one of whom he beat him over the head. He remembers nothing more, he declares, until he awoke in the bus, twenty miles away.

Clark is twenty-seven years old, married, and lives at No. 192 Lawrence avenue, Roxbury. He has two small daughters.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

By International News Service.

SUGARHUT GOT $10,000; SAWYER $10,750 AND AYLRARD $7,500

Daniel H. Coakley, famous Boston lawyer, took the stand today at the trial of District-Attorney Nathan A. Tufts, charged with malfeasance in office, and told how the $85,000 he got in the Mishawum Manor "Eno Circus" case was divided.

Coakley's own professional fee was between $31,000 and $32,000, he testified.

The witness couched his accounting for $76,250 with the cynical confession that he thought most of the claims against the motion picture men, growing out of the Mishawum Manor affair, were "hold-ups."

Coakley did not investigate the case against the movie men enough to know the names of the women, he admitted.

Here is how he says $72,500 of the $85,000 paid over by the frightened motion picture men was split:
Coakley's fee, $31,000 to $32,000.
Attorney H. C. Sawyer, $10,000.
Attorney W. M. Clark, $5,000.
Attorney Daniel Sawyer in Coakley's office, $10,000.
Although he had accounted for only $76,250, Coakley was not pressed to show more.

BRAVES IN BIG PLAN TO UNITE DOUBLE BILL WITH CUBS

Heaven Field, July 12.—A big crowd turned out today to watch the battling Braves and Cubs engage in a double-header here. It was the first real baseball weather. The Mitchell team has had since requiring home a faster clip than any club in the league and with the pitcher showing steadily improving form, the local fans expect the trial to be met and the leading spot in the league.

The leading spot in the league has been made a big hit with the local populace, and in Boston men have been nearly as enthusiastically greeted since the season's opening.

"WIFE WERE HOLDERS"
He was blunt in his characterization of the suit against the motion picture men as "holders."

He knew they were "holders," he told the Supreme Court, and in that case, at least, he added, could know.

The "between $15,000 and $100,000" he put was "what was left" after he had settled with all the girls who were threatening trouble.

He personally paid no woman any money in connection with the Miskewum Manor affair, Coakley said.

However, the case was handled in his office and the release passed through that office.

Coakley said his fee was between $10,000 and $12,000, but was left after disbursement from the $15,000.

Attorney Steneman was connected with the claim of Fred Lord, husband of the Lord, whose affection was taken from him, Lord claimed.

The $15,000 paid to Mr. Clark was for a claim by Fred Tierney, who said his wife's affections were alienated.

PAWN YOUR NEW MOTORBUNGALO FOR A HOUSEBOAT THESE DAYS

AN ARCH CHAMPION!
Mr. R. T. Burns of England absolutely refuses to grow old. At 78 she still holds her title of champion archer of Britain. Her mark of 68 bull-eyes out of 100 has never been equalled. (K. & H.)

MRS. MILDRED C. SCHENCK, cousin of Mark Twain, made a fellow in Royal Geographical Society of London. Industrious geographical worker. (Key.)

ANGEL CAKE! Attention, children! What is California noted for? Correct, Oscar. It is famous for its oranges, had moving picture actors and lovely girls. Hand Prosper (above), and Marjorie Lawrence (right) are excellent samples of the Coast State's principal product. They are a pair of the original cut-throat girls, who will shortly grace a local theatre. No, Oscar, all California girls don't dress like that. They would like to, though.

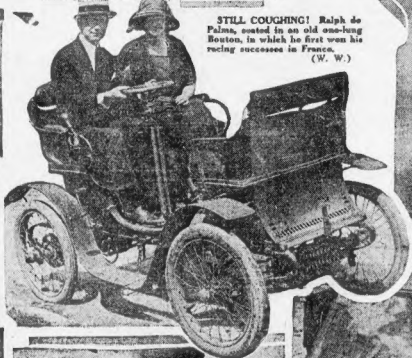

WELL, WELL, LOOK WHO'S HERE! Now that Mr. Dempsey has chastised M. Carpentier, Italy wants a crack at the amiable champion. Here we have Giuseppe Spilla, Italian champion. (Gilliam.)

LET 'EM HOOT! Jimmy Bradley served as foreman on a jury to determine if owls could stay on White House grounds. Mr. Harding O. K. the finding, Jimmy is American forestry member. (W. W.)

WAVE TEASER! Miss Molly Hughes, aside from being an unusually pretty girl, was one of the stars of the Pacific Coast swimming meet at Del Monte, Cal. She led the field in the 100-yard sprint. (U. & U.)

STILL COUGHING! Ralph de Palma, noted in an old one-lung Boston, in which he first won his racing successes in France. (W. W.)

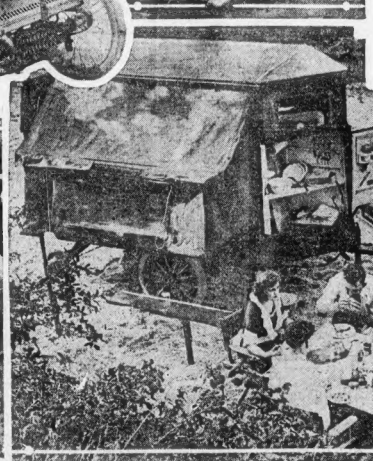

NOSEING IN! Looks as if the Prince of Wales was taking a "whiff" before the "swallow," a procedure now universal in America. But have patience, dear old thing, he's just taking part in a snuffing competition at a garden party. Odd sort of frolic, isn't it? (W. W.)

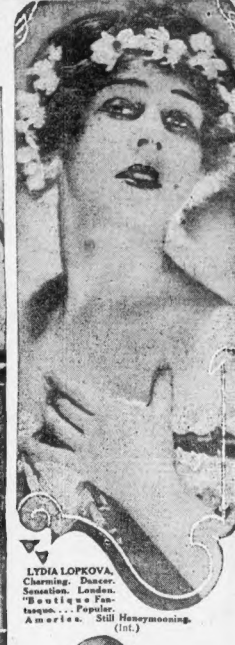

ATABOY! Gee, didn't you see that one, "Slippy"? Little Frank Faunt performing a difficult "angel" somersault from the rings at Clarendon Beach, Chicago. The slightest misjudgment would probably break his neck. Lands in the sand. (U. & U.)

OH DEATH, WHERE IS, ETC! Startling, but not likely to be popular, Miss, Janine and M. H. H. in their sensational dance, "Love and Death," at which Paris is seeking a jaded eye. (K. & H.)

SPEEDING STEEL! This remarkable photograph shows the 56-pound weight leaving the hands of George Stanton (Olympic Club) during the brilliant meet at Fidelity Field, Pasadena, Cal. He won the event. (Int.)

LYDIA LOPEOVA, Charming, Dancer, Sensation, London. "Bawling a Fantasia" in America. Still Honey-mooning. (Int.)

WONDERLAND! It is 6 a. m. You yawn lazily and creep out of your sleeping bag and smile to the brook nearby. The cool water and dew-drenched breeze refresh you. The sun is creeping up in a golden circle. A bird chirps at you from a clump of birches. Seen there is the small of frying bacon. Your inner man repudiated, the canoe is packed for a fishing trip up the stream. And then—the alarm goes off and you yawn to a dusty and smelly office to labor 10 hours. Anyway, here is the new motorbungalow, popular with society folk. It accommodates four adults, with room for children's supplies. Can be attached to ordinary automobile on trailer. (U. & U.)

QUINCY PROTEST ON OIL PLANT ODORS

Decision on Alleged Refinery
Nuisance Withheld By Health Department

After an all-day hearing before the State Department of Health on the question of whether or not the Massachusetts Oil Refining Company constituted a nuisance in East Braintree, because of the offensive odors and oil on the waters about Quincy, the health commissioners took the question under advisement and will announce their decision later.

The question before the commissioners was whether or not an order issued by them on April 2, declaring the plant to be a nuisance and which order was suspended pending certain improvements should be enforced. Attorney S. Mark Sullivan, representing the Moody Land Company, asked that the order be enforced and the plant closed and announced that if the nuisance were not abated his company would bring suit in court for damages, while Attorney L. L. Lewis and officials of the company claimed that the nuisance were almost entirely abated and would be entirely so after modern appliances were installed within the next three months.

Attorney Lewis also said that by the plant $25,000 of New England capital invested in the plant had been lost and one of the four oil refineries in New England closed would mean increased prices in oil and gasoline.

Several residents of Braintree, Weymouth and Quincy told of the offensive odors and of the water so that the health of residents was impaired, while others living close proximity to the plant declared the plant was not objectionable.

BOSTON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS Pre-War Gaiety Reigns Now at Bar Harbor

By BETTY ALDEN

Bar Harbor, that exclusive playground of society folk, is assuming the gaiety of pre-war days, a fact which is of interest here, as well as elsewhere, as quite a number of Bostonians have whiled away their summers at this cool spot on the Maine coast. For a time it seemed as though Bar Harbor could not shake off the gloom which the god of war had laid upon it, but now the island is full of life and merriment. The Steaming Club, which has always been the gathering place of those belonging to the charmed "inner circle," is thronged with bathers, many of whom follow their morning dip with a brisk game of tennis on the excellent courts which the club boasts. Then there is golf, mountain-climbing, sailing and canoeing, though one of the most interesting features is the attention which is being given to driving. For a long time, as most people know, "motor madness" was rigidly excluded from the island. A few years ago this land on automobiles was lifted when excitement was forced to bow to convenience, and driving and sad-dle-riding lost some of their old-time popularity. But once more has the horse come into his own, and many of the Summer residents spend a good part of their time in the saddle.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and her son, John N. Brown, have returned to their Summer home at Newport, after spending a week with Mrs. Charles de Heredia at Whitehall. Which recalls the well-remembered furor created some months ago when young Mr. Brown, now a junior at Harvard, entered his twenty-first birthday along with an estate estimated at $20,000,000. What a time the public did have! Everybody very kindly went about to think up all the nice, sweet, philanthropic ways in which John Nicholas could bring about that long-promised million-dollar by generous spending his twenty millions on others. And John Nicholas himself, suddenly became the prey of "special feature" hounds from far and wide, all of which he seems to have survived. Mrs. Brown spent last winter in this city in order to be near her son during his college course.

Up at the Parker Hill Hospital there are a number of convalescent soldiers who are praying for good weather tomorrow, because if the weather man is kind, they will be discharged by automobile from the hospital to the North Shore to spend the day. It is all due to the kindness of Mrs. George Lee of Boston and Beverly Park, who has set aside has been busy this last week obtaining the use of her friend's machine for the day.

Today being Wednesday, a large number of villa colonists at Newport may be seen at the exhibition drill at the Training Station, which is a weekly event. It has become "quite the thing" to go, for fashionable Summer residents to attend this event.

Commodore Herbert M. Beers of the Eastern Yacht Club is expected to return to the North Shore. Commodore Beers led the fleet to Bar Harbor on its cruise, where the club disbanded, after being royally entertained. It was announced that the schooner Queen Mah, owned by Nathaniel P. Ayer, had been shipped off by Rear Commodore John S. Lawrence.

An engagement of interest to society folk is that of Miss Katherine Louise Saxe to Mr. Philip Hewitt Summer. Miss Saxe, who was engaged in Red Cross work during the war, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Saxe of Brookline, formerly of Montclair, N. J. Mr. Summer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Summer and now serves overseas.

WOMEN'S CLUBS FIGHT TO HALT HAMON FILM

Drive On to Bar Picture Giving
Life Story of Murdered
Oklahoma Politician

Chicago, July 12.—A nationwide campaign to prevent the exhibition of a motion picture, depicting the life of Jake L. Hamon, Oklahoma politician and friend of President Harding, was launched here by Mrs. James H. Keely, of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club. She declared the movement would be barred by every woman's club in America. The playhouse will "star" Clara Smith Hamon, former secretary of Hamon who was tried by an Oklahoma jury on a charge of murdering him. Mrs. Keely declared her campaign was intended simply to "save the life of the real Mrs. Jake Hamon."

Mrs. Jake Hamon broke down when visited by newspaper men. "I am heart," she said. "A good woman receives no sympathy and no support. I can do nothing against that woman. I only know that if the picture is shown, it will kill me." The playhouse is being produced by the John Lane Company.

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

THE INTERESTING question, "how long does it take to make a movie?" has been brought up by the announcement that Cecil DeMille has but four weeks, at the most, to make a new picture. This is the actual "shooting," not counting the time used in writing, editing and "propaganda."

Four weeks ago at least six months on his picture, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and Universal admit that the Von Bersting picture, "The Four Horsemen," has been in the process of completion for months without number.

On the other hand, here comes DeMille with the solemn assurance that four weeks is ample time to stage a feature.

"I believe Mr. DeMille can do it," Lasky declared. "This results in my mind that a number of years ago when the Lasky studio wasn't as large as it is today, he made two pictures at a time during the day and the other at night. They were two of the most successful pictures he ever produced, namely, 'The Cheat' with Wallace Reid and 'The Godless Girl' with Wallace Reid and 'The Godless Girl' with Wallace Reid and 'The Godless Girl' with Wallace Reid."

THEY ARE QUICK - WALLINGFORD COMING.

AN unfortunate play now-days that isn't reproduced.

Live action for posterity, "Get-This-Quick-Wallingford" taken from the George Washington, Co. has been shown, has been transferred to the old-time theater, Frank, of "Hollywood" fame.

Wain Hardy, who has been kidnapped from the musical comedy stage for the event, plays the role of Wallingford, while his accompanist, "Blackie" has been played by Norman Kerry, he of the sleek villainy. Doris Keegan plays the role of Fannie Jasper, which will doubtless be given more prominence on the screen than it was on the stage, while Diana Allen and Billie Dove are members of the supporting cast.

AGNES ALDRIDGE DIVORCE DISMISSED.

SOME LITTLE time ago Agnes Aldridge, the Lasky star, took her domestic troubles into the Los Angeles courts to have them straightened. She asked for a divorce from her husband, Frank H. Decker, of Brooklyn on the grounds that he was a drunkard and a gambler.

Miss Aldridge married Schuchter two years ago while she was in the army. Her husband, Frank H. Decker, of Brooklyn on the grounds that he was a drunkard and a gambler.

Miss Aldridge intends, it is said, to resume her career on the screen this time having the charge on her that isn't reproduced.

Universal holds full sway at the Park Theatre this week where both feature attractions and the featured comedy have been made by that company.

Diamond heads the program in "The Beautiful Gambler," while Frank Mayo stars in the other picture, "The Fighting Lover."

While Grace Diamond doesn't go in for anything as exciting as her picture, she is a beautiful girl, and her picture, "The Fighting Lover," is a beautiful picture. The story, written by Peter B. Kyne, is fairly well-known, but lacks intensity. The girl played by Miss Diamond, is forced to marry a gambler by his father and she is forced to play the "roulette" game to save her father's life. Her father has been set off by his father and she is forced to play the "roulette" game to save her father's life.

Miss Terry has never played roles of importance before she was chosen to portray Margaret Laurier in the picture. She was following the work on the picture, and she was chosen to play the role of Margaret Laurier in the picture.

IT'S THE TRUTH

You cannot do as economically or well with any other fuel as much as you can do with gas. That is why long experience with all fuels always leads to the installing of AN ALL GAS KITCHEN, which, of course, includes an efficient Gas Hot Water Heater.

NOW IS A GOOD TIME TO BUY GAS APPLIANCES.
